“The Realm of Possibility” is a symposium that celebrates the diversity of Queer and Gender Studies. Rooted in literary and cultural studies, the symposium offers a space for the exploration of the joyful, the devastating, the campy, the beautiful, the funny and the tragic that is queerness.

Academics from around the globe and from various fields of research offer exciting glimpses into their area of expertise. There will be room for questions and discussion after the presentations.

We invite anyone who is interested in the topic to register for the symposium to receive additional information and the resources and links here:
